TROPICO RACES PROMISE TO BE A HUGE SUCCESS FASTEST DRIVERS IN AMATEUR CLASS TUNING UP

"SI SLOCUM'S COUNTRY STORE" DRAWS A FULL HOUSE AT G. A. R. HALL LAST WEDNESDAY

If you missed the Thursday Afternoon Club's play "Si Slocum's Country Store," at the G. A. R. Hall last Wednesday evening under the direction of Mrs. Wayland Brown, you missed the time of your life. The hall was crowded and every speech made by those who participated was received with applause.

"Si Slocum's Country Store" was a take-off on Tropico and Tropico merchants and citizens and if any one was missed it was no fault of the actors.

A. J. Van Wie took the part of the country store keeper and (but we can't tell how good an actor we are); Mrs. John Seaman as Tillie, the postmistress, was a scream. Mrs. Seaman is popular in amateur theatricals and her name on the program warrants a success. She was complimented on all sides, but her clever delineation of the postmistress who was always a little ahead of the rest in delivering the town gossip.

Dwight Stephenson, as Joe Hubbard, ne Max Figman, also demonstrated his ability both as an actor as well as overseer of the rubberneck wagon.

Wayland Brown and Jno. Seaman were the chain warmers who "fit" and "bled" many bottles over war records and crackers. Mr. Brown contributed a song to the entertainment which was highly appreciated by the audience.

Harry Hayward, as Booth King, was an up-to-date autoist, and his troubles with his "river" and his antics kept the audience in a roar.

John Stathem, while not a resident of Tropico, is always ready and will-inf to help out anything worthy in the city. John is a professional, and as Jim Snow, the colored boy, he received a large share of applause. His turn, to help out the entertainment, was also well received.

Edward Shipman, as the tramp, and his bit as a juggler always is well received by the Tropico audiences.

Joe Seaman was "Slowboy" and his part was to sleep, and he did his work well. Not but what Joe is always wide awake (he wouldn't be a Seaman if he wasn't).

Noble Ripley, as the town marshal, was busy trying to arrest someone to hold his job.

Miss Esther Jones was Miss Dora Flickman, and created no end of fun in her efforts to ward off the numerous proposals.

Lillie Dotts, or Miss Bertha Sayre, in private life, was the village belle, and created no end of amusement.

Miss Viola Sayre was Mrs. Abbie Sparker, president of the Woman's Club, who was endeavoring to get up an entertainment to secure funds to build a club house for the Thursday Afternoon Club.

Mrs. A. J. Van Wie and Mrs. Wayland Brown were movie actors, who contributed vocal numbers which were well received.

Eloise Seaman, Lucille Barnes, Miss Shay, Jean Anderson and Harriett Barnes contributed a dance that was well executed, and Miss Harriett Barnes gave a very pretty dance that won applause.

Mrs. Wayland Brown, who was responsible for the directing of "Si Slocum's Country Store," is to be complimented in the way in which the cast was drilled. It is tiresome work to put on an amateur performance, but Mrs. Brown always proves her ability in this line and in spite of the fact that there were but two real rehearsals and no dress rehearsal, "Si Slocum's Country Store" was a hit.

To the Citizens of Tropico

The Road Race Committee, realizing the hazards attendant upon the exploitation of such an event as an automobile race, wish to ask the hearty co-operation of Tropico's citizens in taking all precautions with this event. Kindly keep back of the wire yourself. By so doing you will establish a precedent which will be followed by the many visitors to Tropico that day.

What promises to be one of the best road race events staged in Southern California in the past year is rapidly becoming a reality. The second annual Tropico road race to be held Thanksgiving morning looms large in the spotlight of automobile racing and bids fair to eclipse last year's event by a great margin.

With everything entered from a Ford to a National the aft asked question of what becomes of the jitney buses and used cars is partially answered. Many of last year's drivers will be seen again on the Tropico road course and many new satellites in the speed game will make Tropico their maiden race. Among last year's drivers will be Waldo Thrope, Paul Mahoney, winner of the Redondo novice meet; Gus Pulliam of Glendale, and many others.

In the juvenile event will be seen Jack Griffith, Tacoma's addition to the local colony of youthful speed kings; Albert Menasco, winner of one of the Culver City classics; Les Rawson, owner of the famous front-drive Christie, modeled after Barney Oldfield's freak, and Brent Harding who has never been seen in Southern California before.

Rumors are wild and conjectures are many as to what young Harry Hartz, master junior driver of the world, will do at the Tropico event. Some of the wisecracks say that Hartz will be seen at the wheel of one of the season's fastest successes and others aver that he has determined to act in the same capacity as last year, starter. Hartz has assured Mr. Chapman, manager of the meet, that he will be there to assist on race day. However, if Hartz changes his mind and the race bug begins to buzz, in all probabilities he will be there with a hundred-mile an hour creation. Hartz has made a great success in the baby car racing game and has gained world wide renown in this phase of motor activity. If he does drive a large racing car, Tropico will have the distinction of marking the transition from the baby car racing game to the larger racing game, of one of the world's greatest drivers.

The events will be run in the following order:

Motorcycle race, twenty miles; miniature car race, thirty miles; automobile race, fifty miles.

Miss Anita King, Paramount girl of the Jesse Lasky Feature Film Company, has volunteered her services to the Tropico Road Race Committee and will help Mrs. Martha Hanshue in the sale of programs. Miss King will be assisted by several other stars of the Jesse Lasky Company and will prove a welcome addition to the race. The races will start promptly at 9:30 and should be over by 12:30. Every precaution has been taken by the road race management for the safety of the drivers and spectators. The course will be wired and sufficient guards employed to properly insure against accident.

A fall game in the afternoon will attract a large crowd to the playground diamond.

BARNES CIRCUS TO HOLD FORTH IN GLENDALE NEXT TUESDAY

Depending entirely on trained animal to give the entertainment, the Al. G. Barnes Big 3-ring Wild Animal Circus, stands forth as the circus distinctively different from all others. It's a big, three-ring circus, however, with acres of tents, parade, glories, bands, clowns, sawdust rings and general circus festivities, yet it has none but new features on its program.

Inside of a big steel-barred arena in the center of the show's mammoth tent are presented some of the most amazing, thrilling wild animal spectacles ever witnessed. Men and women trainers vie with one another for the plaudits of the people, by presenting death-defying acts with wild animals. Mlle. Florine offers a group of Persian leopards and jaguars; Miss Mable Stark presents Royal Bengal and Siberian tigers and Maj. Thornton has a large number of grizzly and other ferocious bears.

The greatest wild animal act ever successfully shown is given in the arena by Herr Louie Roth. Twenty-four, full grown, jungle-bred, African lions are assembled at one time in this act by Herr Roth. His lack of fear among the great cats seems fairly "devilish." The act is a thriller of the first water.

In the ring at either side of the arena, are shown the domestic and less ferocious animals. A large herd of elephants, trained to do many amazing things are presented in these rings. Camels, zebra, kangaroos, dogs, goats and monkeys are continually busy in the sawdust circles.

Other features of especially interest are Tom, Dick and Harry, juggling, horse-riding sea lions, Sampson, the aviation lion, and the Barnes troupe of beautiful horses and ponies. There are 550 of them and they are absolutely unrivalled as to beauty, breeding and education among the world's horses.

The comely part of the show's program is provided by "A variety of elephants, zebras, ponies, dogs, monkeys and bears."

A big new feature parade is presented at 10:30. Performances will be given in Glendale at 2 and 8 p. m. on Tuesday, November 23. Doors open at 1 and 7 p. m.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES MEET IN REGULAR WEEKLY SESSION

Trustees Boyce and Webster absent. A communication from Mr. Brand of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. stated that he stood ready to take over, at par, a bond issue of $70,000 at 5 1/2 per cent interest, to run as long as desired, in case the City of Tropico voted a bond issue to purchase the water company.

City Engineer submitted a plan of grades in regrading flow of water from the Tropico division box to a point for a proposed reservoir. This shows a fall sufficient to supply the city with water.

Notice inviting bids for street work improvements on Tenth street was offered and passed.

Resolution ordering certain work to be done on Tenth street was passed.

PAUL SHOUP SENDS OUT STATEMENT REGARD- ING STATEMENTS

"In view of the rumors as to the nature of the changes in Pacific Electric service, effective on the 14th inst, it is desirable to state that there is nothing in these changes radical enough adversely to affect the interests of the territory served.

"The Pacific Electric, like any other business institution, finds it necessary at times to trim its sails to meet weather conditions. This is an ordinary measure of business prudence. Such retrenchments as are to be made are based upon the principle that the public and the Pacific Electric can both get along best without that service which is least used.

"The uncontrollable causes leading to existing conditions have of course affected the Pacific Electric, as they have other lines of business, adversely during the last two years and the result in some sections have been quite accentuated by the competition of automobiles. Care has been taken, however, not to disturb the service essential to any community in the proposed changes.

"The communities interested have been advised or will be advised today what these changes are, and I believe we will have their co-operation in accepting and trying out the new schedules.

"So far as the future is concerned, it is only a question of time, and I trust no great time, until Southern California in a business way, returns to normal conditions."

PYTHIAN SISTERS WILL HOLD XMAS BAAZAR AT K. P. HALL

The Pythian Sisters are aggrandizing several new features for the Christmas bazaar and old fashioned dinner they will give in K. P. Hall, on San Fernando boulevard, Thursday evening, November 18. Mrs. B. F. Cook, president of the Thimble club, auxiliary to the Pythian Temple, has arranged a most appetizing menu, and then placed this bill of fare at twenty-four plus one cent per plate, with all hungry youngsters to be served at fourteen plus one cent per serving. Following the dinner the sale of many pretty and useful articles will be held. Mrs. Myra C. K. Shuey and Mrs. William Tiffany will have charge of the apron and cap booth, Miss Blanche Shea and Miss Amy Miller will dispense the bonbons, candies and sweet meats at a prettily decorated booth. Dancing will be another pleasant diversion for the evening, and the popular Busch's orchestra will furnish the music for this pastime.

Mrs. Jack Hammond entertained the members of the Kensington Club at her home on East Cypress street, last Wednesday afternoon.

THE PEARL S. KELLER SCHOOL OF DRAMATIC ART, MUSIC AND DANCING

Mrs. Pearl S. Keller, has leased the Mrs. A. L. Bancroft home at 123 S. Brand boulevard and has established the "Pearl S. Keeler School of Dramatic Art, Music and Dancing."

Mrs. Keeler chose Tropico as a home for her school after several visits, socially, here, having become imbued with that feeling that is bound to take hold of every one who visits Tropico once. She did not overlook Tropico, instead she looked it over and decided to stay.

Mrs. Keller is an artist in her profession; has appeared with Henrietta Crossman, Maxine Elliott and others of national reputation. She is a finished graduate from schools of note—both in dramatic art and dancing.

Especially attention will be given to juvenile the dansant, the new innovation in society circles.

The Keller School will endeavor to keep away from the prolonged practice of elocution and specialize on purely dramatic art. Students will be given practical stage work and plays will be produced. In dancing the stu-

Mrs. Harry E. Bowman, with her kennel of collies, was again victorious at the meeting of the Ladies' Kennel Association, held last week in the old Robinson Store building, in Los Angeles. Some 450 dogs were exhibited during the show.

Mrs. Bowman, with two dogs, "Bonnie" and "Wonder Baby," won first prize for best female; first prize for best puppy and first prize for best brace.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Poland of Lyons, Kan., were guests at the home of Mrs. David Queler and Miss Cora Hickman this week.

dent will be taught both the new ball room steps as well as fancy dancing, both for children and grown-ups.

The Bancroft home is well adapted for work of this kind. The main drawing room being large enough for dancing, and dramatic training and also can be used for private club parties or dances when so desired.

Mrs. Keller has expressed a willingness to enter into the life of Tropico and her services are available at any time.

An Improvised
Boat

By JOHN TURNLEE

During the war between the states the singular methods used by prisoners of war for escape sound very gauzy today, fifty years after they occurred.
But when one considers the number of men under arms, then figures the proportionate number of prisoners and remembers that one in fifty is not a large proportion of prisoners who made attempts to escape, he will see that quite a little army made the venture.
For example, suppose there were 100-000 prisoners taken during the war, 2,000 men tried to escape.

Among the curious ventures made by Union prisoners in the south between 1861 and 1865 was that of Charles Dorrance, a private in the Union army. Dorrance was wounded during the operations around Vicksburg and taken to a house on a small plantation, where he was nursed by a young southern girl.

Every one knows how conducive to love is nursing. Mabel Owen captured her patient without any trouble, and he captured her the first time she saw him. She was a country girl, and Charlie was a city boy, with a clear, honest eye and a pleasant smile. It was not to be wondered that she surrendered on sight.

Had the captive of Cupid rejoined his command as soon as he was well enough to do so he would probably not have been made a captive of Mars.
He dallied, and a troop of Confederate cavalry came along and took him to the camp of an infantry brigade on the bank of the Mississippi river. Mabel, on seeing her lover taken away from her, was disconsolate. When he bid her goodbye, moved by the strongest impulse in humanity, love, he whispered in her ear:

"Be on the lookout for me, for I'll come back to you if I have to come in my coffin!"

The day Dorrance was taken to the Confederate camp two deserters were tried by court martial and sentenced to be shot. A carpenter was at once set to work to make the coffins. He was doing the job in sight of the guard tent where Charlie was confined.
Charlie noticed that he was making slow progress and heard an officer berating him, saying that if he didn't work faster he wouldn't get the job done in time for the execution, which was appointed for half an hour after revelle the next morning. Charlie told the officer that he knew all about making coffins—which was false—and would help if permitted. The officer accepted the offer, and Charlie went to work.

One of the coffins was a very large one and the other a very small one.
Charlie worked on the large one. He did not finish it till long after dark and was permitted to go on, a sentinel being placed over him to see that he remained in camp.

It was about an hour after taps, and the command was asleep, all except the chain of sentinels surrounding the camp, and so was the guard detailed to watch the prisoners. There was a way open to Charlie—the river. Unfortunately he couldn't swim and had no boat. But Charlie conceived an idea. Boring holes in the upper edges of the coffin, he drove pins in the holes, then roughly shaped a couple of four inch planks into a pair of oars.

The pins were the right distance apart for rowlocks. The blades of the oars were the right thickness, but the rest was rather thin.

He was working within a few yards of the river, and, putting the oars in the coffin, he carried it to the water. launched it, got in, and the friendly current carried him out into and down the river. As soon as he had gone far enough from shore he took up his oars, thereby steadying his improvised boat, which was topsey.

Charlie had been taken up the river some distance above the plantation where he had been nursed and floated back to it. He kept awake till morning; then, being young and the young requiring sleep, he lay flat on his back and settled to slumber.

Mabel Owen arose early that morning, got the breakfast for the family and went out to mourn for her lost lover. She was sitting on a stump on the bank of the river when, looking northward, she saw something like a boat in the distance. As it approached it did not show the curved outline of a skiff. It was rather a parallelogram with bulged sides, at an angle. When it came near enough to be distinguished she saw that it was a coffin with a body in it.

Her first thought was that the ever changing Mississippi had washed into a graveyard and let out a corpse. But she couldn't understand why it had no lid. The grewsome boat came on with the current till it floated directly under the bank where Mabel sat. A recognition of her lover and a remembrance of his promise to come back to her if he had to come in his coffin came to her simultaneously, and she gave a shriek sufficient to raise the dead.

It certainly raised the living, for it wakened Charlie, who opened his eyes and saw his girl bending over the bank directly above him. He sat up, grasped the oars, turned his boat to shore, and in a few minutes the lovers were clasped in each other's arms.

Charlie didn't stay long with her, however. He rejoined his command, but after the war returned for his sweetheart.

There is no record as to how the big deserter got on without a coffin.

Economy
Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.—
Benjamin Franklin.

ARTICLES that are worn more or less evenly in all parts are best not patched, because, the surplus material of the patch being newer than that of the garment, it will only stain or tear it.

When patching is referred to as repairing it implies putting in entire new portions of a garment, such as bands, cuffs, collars and facings, and is best learned from the ways of making the garment. The ordinary patching is cutting out worn or torn parts and putting in better material. The patch must be of the same substance, color and quality as the original material.

Entirely new material, being stronger than the garment, should not be used.
If partly worn pieces are not available it is best to choose thinner material.
Wash fabrics should always be washed before using. Dresses generally lose some of the original color through wearing, and one may fade a patch in the sun to the right tone before using.
The first principle in patching is to have the patch show as little as possible when finished.

In inserting a patch care must be taken to have the warp of patch and article run in the one direction. Sel-vages usually all run lengthwise on garments because the warp threads have more strength. When the position of the selvage cannot readily be determined pull the material in different ways; the stronger or warp threads will yield and stretch less than the woof; or fray out a few threads and you will find the warp smooth against a wavy appearance in the woof.

There are many ways of preparing and setting in these patches, but a few usual rules are to be observed. The widths of hems (suited to the thickness of the material) must be the same at each side; the corners must be firmly and securely sewed; the patch must be on the wrong side when finished.

An easy method is to hem the patch on the wrong side and then fell it on the right. Strike or mark on the right side of the material where it is to be cut away, then mark (on the right side) for the seam allowance, usually about one-quarter inch; lastly mark the actual width of the fell according to the thickness of the material. This last marking or striking is on the wrong side, as that is where the patch is to be sewed on.

NEAT FOOTWEAR.

The Fad Styles Should Be Avoided by Women.

Regarding footwear, one cannot lay too much stress on the fact that it is one of the most important features of feminine wardrobe this season. Nevertheless the woman of good taste will disregard the many fad stockings and shoes offered to her and will select quiet, elegant pedal coverings that will distinguish her from the great mass who rush in where angels fear to tread.

It is perfectly good taste to wear the spats of white, of tan or pale gray with the morning or afternoon costume.
With the latter, however, may be worn a low shoe of white, of gray or black kid—according to the costume—with trimmings of a contrasting color.

It is always better judgment to have the hosiery match the color of the dress or suit. This makes less awkward, in effect, the woman to whom the very short skirt is not becoming, and it makes less conspicuous the un-shapely ankle which offends the eye of the esthetic.

After several seasons of buckle ornamentation an era of simple lacings or bow decoration has set in. Very few buckles are seen even in connection with the dancing slipper. Bronze vamps with champagne uppers are among the novelties offered for wear with the demi costume. They continue the color scheme of the costume and thus counteract the grotesque line of the very short skirt.

Shoe trees have improved vastly within the last few seasons. To a very large extent the wooden forms have been supplanted by those of metal.

Orange Mint Relish.

Take four large oranges, peel carefully, slice and cut into cubes the size of dice. Add an equal amount of pineapple prepared as above, sprinkle with four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, two tablespoonfuls of fine chopped mint, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and one tablespoonful of sherry wine. If the pineapple is not fully ripened crush enough to add a tablespoonful of the juice. Stir together lightly to prevent mashing the fruit.
Serve in sherbet glasses cold and garnish with candied cherries or fresh cherries or other berries, as preferred.

Cottage Cheese Hint.

In making cottage cheese use an enameled ware colander in which to which to press it. Any milk product is very easily affected by its surroundings, and a metal colander may not only give a flavor, but is apt also to slightly darken the cheese, which should be of snowy whiteness.

After it has thoroughly drained add salt, a good sized piece of butter and a tablespoonful of sweet cream. Mix, cool on ice and serve while fresh.

DELICIOUS RHUBARB RECIPES.

STEWED rhubarb is known to almost every housekeeper, but even this homely dish may be transformed if a few raisins, a little grated lemon peel or bits of sliced orange are added when it is put on to cook.

Authorities differ about skinning the rhubarb, many contending that if the stalks are young and delicately tinted with pink this is not necessary, and undoubtedly when it is not peeled it gives the cooked fruit a beautiful pink color. As examples of delicious methods of preparing this fruit the following suggestions are offered:

Rhubarb Conserve.

The ingredients required are two quarts of fresh rhubarb, cut into small pieces, one quarter of a pound of shell and broken walnuts, one orange, two heaping cupfuls of sugar and half a pound of seeded raisins. Place the prepared fruit in an enameled sauce pan, add the juice and yellow pulp of the orange with the other ingredients and simmer over a very moderate heat for half an hour. Be careful to stir frequently, so that the conserve will not scorch. When cooked to the consistency of marmalade pour into jelly glasses and the next day cover with paraffin. This is a delicious sweetmeat to serve with toasted muffins or as a filling for ten sandwiches.

Rhubarb Custard Pie.

Slice and stew ten stalks of fresh rhubarb that have been cut into small pieces. When tender mash fine and press through a colander. For each pie use the yolks of two eggs, a heaping cupful of sugar, two-thirds of a cupful of rich milk, one teaspoonful of butter and a little grated nutmeg. Mix well and bake with an undercrust only, as an ordinary custard pie.

Rhubarb Shortcake.

Cut up the rhubarb after selecting reddest stalks. Place the fruit in a granite saucepan, with the strained juice of two oranges and a little of the grated peel. Simmer gently until tender, add granulated sugar to taste and cook until the mixture is quite thick. Remove from the fire, let cool slightly and spread between a shortcake that has been split open and buttered. Pour the rest of the fruit over the top and serve immediately with thick cream. This is an excellent shortcake and is rather unusual.
